

This week is What's On Clonmel's first anniversary; a whole year providing you with the best resource to find activities in the town, every week without break. Away from social media, algorithms and advertisements, we are an independent group of volunteers hoping to make a difference.

It has been a lot of work, but the appreciation we receive from you every week makes it all worth it.

Here's to another year promoting Clonmel and all it has to offer.
